About the presentation: Indian IT has poised for the next big leap and move up to reach leadership position not only in IT services but also in Software Products and possibly Knowledge Technology. According to Gartner and other analysts, by 2015, IT services will be a trillion dollar market and enterprise software to grow to 325 billion in the total market of four trillion. With normal growth and next wave of technology evolution, the IT spend is expected to touch eight to 10 trillion USD by 2025. The Indian IT has an opportunity to dominate and lead in the IT services, enterprise software and contribute to the growth in newer technologies including robotics and bionics. IT Services and Software Product (IP) is the sweet spot for India to gain 30% market share. The speaker is looking at the Crystal Ball in this session and will walk through the path that Indian IT to take including paradigm shift to become the top three in the world coinciding with the Diamond Jubilee of CSI.
